

NEW MANAGING EDITOR CHOSEN FOR THE DAILY

D. A. MacDonald Succeeds E. D. MacLeod

COUNCIL MEETING

New Constitution for Daily
Drawn up and Ratified
Yesterday

Duncan A. L. MacDonald, Commerce '25, becomes Managing Editor of the Daily in succession to E. D. MacLeod who has resigned. MacDonald's appointment was approved at yesterday's meeting of the Students' Council. Miles Gordon, as well as being Editor-in-Chief will hold the office of President, left vacant by the resignation of Ted Newton.

The resignations of Newton and MacLeod were tendered on a technical constitutional disagreement with the attitude of the Students' Council in regard to the Daily Managing Board. This has been since corrected and the Daily constitution has been revised to correct disputed points particularly in regard to the matter of editorial policy. In view of their affiliations with the staff of the University Newton and MacLeod have thought best to tender their resignation as final and the Council accepted them as such at a meeting held last Friday.

A special meeting was called yesterday of the Council, the Advisory Board of the Council, composed of Graduates and the Daily News Board at which the whole matter of the Daily constitution was discussed and satisfactorily settled. The old constitution of the Daily had become obsolete and a new one had been drawn up by the Editor-in-Chief and the News Board. This new constitution was ratified by the Council.

At the close of the special meeting a regular meeting of the Council was held. While the Advisory Board was still in attendance the question of the Mandolin Club's engagement at the Palace Theatre and the advertising of their appearance was referred to the graduates. It was agreed that the Palace should be permitted to bill their next week's show as a McGill Week featuring the McGill Mandolin Club.

No nominations had been received for representatives on the Union House Committee and no application had been sent in by that faculty asking a further opportunity for nominating men. The Union House Committee were agreed to carry on without Medical representatives and in view of this the Council decided that no further nominations would be called for.

The holding of a canvass among the students for the Federated Charities was approved and J. C. Brierley, Arts '4 was appointed in charge.

Frank Godine was chosen as the representative of the McGill Students' Council at the sixth annual Macquarrie Ball in Hart House Toronto Friday, November 20th.

The programme of the McGill Music Club and their plans for the Gravenor recital on February first were approved. The holding by the Pharmaceutical Society of an informal dance on the 19th of November and a sleigh drive on the 29th of January was sanctioned.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter to the Athletic Board requesting that the latter should assist in defraying the expenses of the Band's trip to Toronto, should sufficient additional revenue from other sources be forthcoming.

Council elections were set for December 9, nominations to be in November 25th.

Members of the Council present were: MacLeod, Jamison, Fletcher, Macdonald, Manson, Godine, Almond, Goodson, Gordon and Gordon.

Following is the new constitution of the McGill Daily as ratified by the Council yesterday:

CONSTITUTION OF THE MCGILL DAILY

1.—Name

The name of the Undergraduate newspaper of McGill University shall be the McGill Daily.

2.—When Published

The McGill Daily shall be published daily except Sunday, by the Students' Executive Council of McGill University from the opening of the University in October until the determined number of issues have been printed save that it shall not appear on such days during the mid-semester examinations period and holidays as the Managing Board hereinafter described shall determine.

3.—Purpose

As the official organ of the Students' Society of McGill University the McGill Daily shall be issued to

To Print Book On McGill In The Late War

A beautiful War Memorial volume is in progress of publication by the Corporation of McGill University, giving an intimate insight into the activities of McGill men in the late war. Nothing will be spared to make it as complete and well-set-up as possible.

Photographs and detailed biographies of the men of the university who were killed in action, while slightly shorter biographies of every man who joined with the university battalion, will be published.

The statistics will be as complete as possible. It is stated and will embrace every possible aspect of the great war in the eyes of those who are interested in it.

APPLIED SCIENCE EXALTED TODAY

Dr. Bower Speaks on Victorian Botanists

There is a tendency to-day in the Empire to exalt the practical over the theoretical—to pay more attention to the applied botanist who can improve the crops than to the purer aspect of the science. This was the opinion expressed by Prof. F. O. Bower, Professor Emeritus of Botany at the University of Glasgow, who spoke yesterday afternoon in the Biological Building. The subject of the address was "Botanists of the Victorian Age" and the speaker dealt with short biographical sketches of the men who had helped to place the science of botany where it is to-day.

Dr. Bower began his lecture by enumerating three early influences on the growth of botany. First, Lord Bacon, who established the inductive method in his "Novum Organum"; second, the foundation of the Royal Society in 1662 which consciously put into force the methods of Bacon; third, the improvements made in the microscope at this time, which was directed on plant tissues.

The speaker then traced the history of botany to the Victorian Age, relating its development on the part of the German professors. From the year 1887 to 1901, Queen Victoria's reign, the science grew rapidly in England. Dr. Bower spoke with intimacy of the men who had revolutionized science, particularly of Huxley and the early evolutionists. He had known Sir Thomas Hooker and Saks, the noted German botanist.

convey the news of students activities impartially. When any controversial question arises among the undergraduates the McGill Daily shall assume a neutral attitude in its editorial column and shall not oppose any decision of the Council. Further no editorial shall treat religious or political questions in a partisan manner.

4.—Control

(a)—The editorial policy shall be under the direction of the Managing Board hereinafter described.

(b)—The financial control of the Daily shall be vested in the Students' Council after consultation with the Managing Board.

5.—Managing Board

(a) There shall be a Managing Board which consists of the President of the Daily, the Editor-in-Chief, and the Managing Editor.

(b)—Undergraduates shall be eligible for any of the positions on the Managing Board. One member of the Managing Board may be from the School of Graduate Students provided

ARMISTICE DAY

November 11th, 1925.

To every Canadian Armistice Day should be a day of splendid memories. The time will come when the war will not even be a living memory, but I believe that its great lessons of discipline and labour, comradeship and unselfishness, tranquil courage and true patriotism should not be allowed to vanish with the years.

Above all we must keep before this generation and before that which is to come the lesson of love for the land of our fathers and the lesson of unshakable faith in the ultimate greatness of our country.

I would not wish to dignify warfare. I know too well that no pomp or circumstance, no waving of banners, no talk of dancing plumes, can lend true dignity to war. But it is my profound belief that if the qualities which I have enumerated above, those qualities which made the Canadians great in war, were nurtured and applied in peace our country would advance unflinchingly to its rightful place among the nations of the world.

PIERRE PREPARES ARMISTICE DINNER

Proceeds Will Help Band
Make Toronto Trip

To-night at 5.30 Pierre has arranged for a big Armistice turkey dinner in the Cafeteria. The proceeds will be devoted towards helping the Rooters Band make the trip to Toronto this coming week-end. Judging by Saturday's reception the organization has the support of the undergraduate body, band authorities state and it is to them that Pierre appeals, urging them to attend this dinner, that they may thus show their patriotism.

It has been Pierre's custom for the past few years to hold a Turkey dinner from time to time and tonight's repast will be the first of the season. Deliciously well-browned turkey will form a nucleus around which Pierre will build one of his famous repasts. The meal has been reasonably priced at sixty cents. The holders of meal tickets will be able to use them as usual.

Dinner will be served in both dining-rooms and the Band under the direction of Bandmaster Casey will render the following programme from the rounds: 1. Hall Alma Mater, 2. Invercargill, 3. Tenth Regiment, 4. Jolly Coppermith, 5. Blue Ridge Division, 6. Greeting to Bunker, 7. Colonel Bogey, 8. Red and White Sweater.

He is not a member of the University teaching staff.

6.—Appointment of the Managing Board

The members of the Managing Board shall be appointed by the retiring Managing Board and their appointment and tenure of office shall be subject to the approval of the Students' Executive Council.

7.—Term of Office

The three members of the Managing Board shall hold office for one year from July first following their appointment.

NEW JOURNAL PROBABLY OUT NOVEMBER 25

Dr. Leacock has Written Article for First Number

CANVASSERS MEET

Dr. MacMillan Will Ask Bliss Carman for a Poem

The first issue of the McGill Fortnightly Review will probably appear on Wednesday, November 25. It was announced last night by the editors who are busily engaged making preparations for the new publication. The subscription list is very heavy and it is expected that a large number of copies will be sold on the first day to casual buyers.

The Fortnightly Review has received the fullest support from the students at McGill University who are interested in literary endeavour and several members of the staff have expressed themselves as heartily in favor of it. There is in consequence, no dearth of articles or of financial support. Subscriptions not yet sent in by students may be submitted to any of the editors or mailed to the McGill Fortnightly Review, care of A. P. H. Coulbourn 16 Venise Apartments, 989 Atwater Avenue.

The campaign for financial support from the students is progressing as well as can be expected, and the canvassers are asked to attend a meeting at five o'clock in the Lounge Room of the Union, where they will give the money collected to the chairman of the McGill Fortnightly Review. The campaign for subscriptions from the staff, it is reported will begin shortly, although many professors have already subscribed.

Dr. Stephen Leacock has written an article for the first number. It is entitled "The Flight of College Time" and is especially interesting to McGill students on account of Dr. Leacock's reminiscences.

Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, head of the Department of English, has been consulted in the matter of the McGill Fortnightly Review, and has spoken very favorably of the venture. Dr. MacMillan has promised to ask the Canadian poet, Bliss Carman, who is soon coming to McGill, to give the editors of the Review a poem by himself.

The McGill Fortnightly Review is to be primarily an organ of literature and student politics. The editors invite articles on these subjects from students and members of the staff. The editors desire it to be clearly understood that there shall be no discrimination in the selection of articles from any point of view except that of literary merit. Although the editorial staff of the Review will feel at liberty to adopt and to advocate a definite attitude in its editorial columns, it hopes that in all controversial questions which may come up articles on both sides will be submitted.

The McGill Fortnightly Review is in no sense a weedy growth. The editors maintain. It has several precedents, such as the Literary Supplement.

INJURED RUGBY PLAYERS BETTER

Doull and Hanna are Improving Now

Keth Doull, who was reported a few days ago, as having suffered a relapse and whose condition had taken a turn for the worse, spent a very satisfactory day yesterday and is decidedly better. It was learned last night from the General Hospital where he is confined in Ward G. If he spends another day like yesterday, his chances for pulling through are greatly increased it was stated. Eddie Hanna, who was injured in Saturday's game against Varsity, and who is also resting at the General Hospital, is progressing satisfactorily.

Doull who is a member of the Commerce sophomore class was severely injured in a rugby game played between the McGill Intermedic Team and Loyola a few weeks ago. On examination by the doctor it was found that he had contracted peritoneal hemorrhage. He had to be rushed to the hospital and was operated upon immediately. He underwent several operations and these were not entirely successful. A few days ago doctors declared his condition as very dangerous but things had changed for the better yesterday.

Hanna's injury is not serious and he is now resting quietly at the hospital. He is suffering from a congestion of the nerves and the spine. His hands, which were at first paralyzed, are gradually beginning to lose their numbness and are coming back to normal once more. He was examined by a neurologist and nothing which will be of permanent injury was found. He must, however, be quietly for a while. It is expected that he will be out of the hospital by the end of the week.

Chess Club, Challenged, Will Play Oklahoma U. Through Correspondence

The McGill Chess Club after receiving a challenge from Oklahoma University to play a match with the Chess Club there by mail at a meeting yesterday decided to accept that challenge. As a result a letter leave McGill this week giving the first move on the part of the McGill "E" team, which is conducting the game, and requesting the challenger to make the next move. Two games will be played in this manner—one with Oklahoma playing the white and McGill the black, and the other playing the opposite and the Scratch, which was published in the session of 1921-1922. Since the Students' Council saw fit to discontinue the Supplement, as this is a year of economy and retrenchment in student affairs, it seems quite natural that literary talent at McGill should seek another means of outlet, they affirm. These means were forthcoming in an independently supported organ of a similar type to the Scratch.

Scarlet Key Nominations Close To-day

So far ten nominations for the Scarlet Key Society have been received by the secretary of the Students' Council. Of these six have been nominated in Arts, one in Commerce, two in Law and one in Medicine.

Further nominations for the Society are expected to be in by six o'clock this evening when nominations will officially be closed.

Arts, Commerce, Science and Medicine are each entitled to four representatives while Dentistry is entitled to three, and Law to two.

PRESBYTERIANS HOLD MEETING

Officers are Elected—Dr. Hill is Speaker

Several officers were elected at a meeting held last night of the Students' Society of the Presbyterian College. Other questions relating to the organization were also discussed, such as the frequency of meetings and the constitution of subsidiary societies. Dr. A. M. Hill of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, delivered a short address on the business of a preacher and his proper function in the community.

Sections of the constitution were discussed during the course of the evening and the number of officers was diminished with a view of making the calling of the meetings easier. Meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month. All members are to pay an annual fee of $1.00. The annual meeting will be held on the second Tuesday in March.

The following officers were elected: Students' Society Honorary President Dr. D. J. Fraser, President W. Gordon, B. A. Vice-President J. Howie, Secretary Treasurer G. Hollingsworth, Chairman of Missionary Society, G. J. Purcell, Vice-Chairman, A. W. MacKenzie, Secretary Treasurer Harry Donald, Chairman of Philosophical and Literary Society—J. Hendry, Vice-Chairman Andrew Johnson, Secretary Treasurer—Jack Matthews, Chairman of Athletic Society—L. Fulford, Vice-Chairman—J. W. Macdonald, Secretary Treasurer McPherson, Purcell was then elected to the office of prefect at the Diocesan college and also supervisor of the common room.

Dr. Hill of Yarmouth, who had recently visited the United States, then gave a short address on the business of the preacher. "He must give the best he has to his fellows" he declared. "He must minister to others and not be ministered to."

TO REPRESENT MCGILL

"Charles" Coleman, treasurer of the Science Undergraduates has been chosen to represent McGill and its faculty, at the annual banquet of the Engineering Society at Toronto University on Thursday, November 12th.

He: Jane lost her job in the grocery store because she refused to do what the boss asked her. She: What was that? He: He asked her to lay some eggs in the window.

Prof: "Give me a definition for nothing."

Fresh: "Sir, what you gave me for going after your theatre tickets."

CANNOT SHIRK INTERNATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

Sir John Power Says U.S. Must Take Place in World Affairs

SPEAKS THURSDAY

Will Address Canadian Club In Union Ball Room Tomorrow

That the United States is shirking her responsibility in the affairs of the world was the emphatic statement made by Sir John Power Bart, M.P., in an interview yesterday.

"The position of the United States is getting more difficult, and it is hard to see how she can much longer refrain from taking her share in the maintenance of the peace of the world," declared Sir John. He was of the opinion that the president pursuance by the United States of the Munro doctrine, will soon lead to an impossible situation, from the standpoint of the Americans themselves.

Sir John Power will speak twice in Montreal, Tomorrow before the Canadian Club his address will be on "England's Policy in the Middle West and the Tutelage of Backward Races." He will also speak to McGill students in the Union at five o'clock Thursday, his subject being "The Present Situation in Europe." He will deal with France, Germany and the economic and industrial position of England today.

Concerning the pact of Locarno, Sir John Power was high in his praise of the British delegation under Austen Chamberlain. "The Pact of Locarno," he said, "will be in my opinion a most epoch-making event. Credit for the achievement rests almost entirely with Great Britain, without whose cooperation it would have been quite impossible. The position of the United States of America seems to be getting more difficult, and it is hard to see how she can much longer refrain from taking her share in the maintenance of the peace of the world. The strength of the League of Nations grows continually and although one cannot hope for perfection in six short years, it is now acknowledged on all hands that the League has made great progress towards its ideal, the prevention of war. There only now remains three nations who have not so far notified their willingness to help share the burden. They are chaotic Russia, disturbed Mexico, and the respectable and prosperous United States."

"I do not think that the position of isolation in which the States finds herself, is entirely satisfactory to the powers that be. I can see many difficulties that might arise which would give her food for thought."

SOUTH AMERICAN SITUATION
"One that occurs to me is this:— Suppose two South American countries have a dispute and appeal to the League of Nations to settle it. What becomes of the Munro doctrine? Could the States cry 'hands off' to any intervention by the League when such intervention would be at the direct request of two nations as much American as the inhabitants of the U. S. A.?"

Sir John Power explained that America's power to stop the European nations from interfering in the affairs of the South American republics worked all right while these republics were small and obscure, but they are now in a position to assert their complete independence of the policies of the States.

"Problems such as this might easily crop up at any time and the possibility of the United States insisting their policy of isolation grows more and more difficult as the League of Nations proves itself capable of fulfilling the objects for which it was formed," he declared.

Sir John related how he had rated the Americans soundly on their policy, during his visit to New York. They received his words well, and seemed to be amenable to reason.

INTER-ALLIED DEBTS
"Doubtless the question of funding the debts owing to the U. S. A. by the Allied nations, occupies the major position in her mentality. To me, U. S. A's policy is one which is not likely in the long run to bring satisfactory results, and outside Great Britain, to whom the sanctity of contracts is as the breath of her life, I doubt if the unborn generations of U. S. A's allies in the great war, will consent to pay to the unborn generations of the U. S. A., money that was expended by them, to use President Woodrow Wilson's words: 'to deliver the free peoples of the world from the menace and actual power of a vast military establishment secretly planned.'"

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1926.

SEVEN YEARS AFTER

Seven years ago to-day there came to the world the announcement that four years of slaughter had come to an end and that a war, which we were told was to end wars, had been fought and won. Won.....but at such a price! The sweet delights of victory were made bitter, and behind the wild joy that reigned on that November 11 there was the realization that more than eight millions had paid with their lives before hostilities had ceased, and that countless numbers were scarred victims of the struggle. Still further there came a mocking thought—centuries of civilisation, hundreds of years of effort and achievement, and then four years to show us how little it takes to undermine the foundations of it all. The world had yet much to learn.

Seven years have passed since the war-paralyzed world awoke to find that there was peace—they called it peace—and chaos still reigns. Four years of struggle and hatred must leave their legacy and when the last shot was fired it was merely a signal for the trouble that was to come. In the wake of bloodshed we saw disease, new struggles, the formation of a twisted and horrible mentality among many, the spread of crime, the financial ruin of some of the most important nations and the arrival of a new generation which stood and stands on the threshold of a life of confusion. This generation has to pay for that deadly struggle and there are yet unborn generations over whom hang the shadow of the war. They too, innocent as they are, must pay and will pay dearly.

To-day we can look more logically upon the past. We can see—now that passion and hatred and fervent patriotism fanned by crude war propaganda have died down—how utterly foul, how damnable war is—how by fighting we sap our own vitality as well as the enemy's and then must lie panting for breath for many years before a single muscle can be lifted to enable us to step ahead. If November 11 is to remind us of anything, written as it is in blood upon history's pages, it is of our experiences during those four years of agony, of the waste of life and resources, and of the fact that during that time the world destroyed rather than produced. Having realized this Armistice Day should serve as the time for the renewal of the pledge on the part of the youth of the world never to permit the occurrence of such a catastrophe again.

To the students at McGill as to other universities the event is a significant one. The college man is in a far better position than the man on the street to realize what war really means. It is he who will cast the deciding vote when future quarrels arise. It is he who will have to make the world comprehend the basic truth of Sir Philip Gibbs's statement in his famous work on the war "Now it Can Be Told" that "by blood and passion there will be no healing." Sir Philip knows only too well of what he speaks. He had the opportunity of seeing the turmoil from beginning to end, and he saw it with the impartial eye of the journalist and the historian.

Reason, which should emanate from the university, must dominate this blood and passion. In this matter, therefore, the attitude of the student is only too well defined.

THE CANADIAN CLUB

The McGill Canadian Club will hear its third speaker this session tomorrow evening when Sir John Power will address that organization on European problems.

We publish elsewhere today an interview with Sir John in which he discusses the recent Locarno pact and its significance as well as other outstanding questions. It is indeed fitting that Sir John should come to McGill so soon after Armistice Day to tell of the great efforts which are being made by the nations of the world to bring turmoil to an end and to make possible the complete outlawry of war, so that a repetition of the tragedy of 1914 should be impossible hereafter.

The aim of the McGill Canadian Club has ever been to bring to the students men who are in a position to discuss problems which are of the greatest significance. That their efforts have been crowned with success in the past has been only too evident, and it is to be hoped that a large number of the undergraduates, all of whom are members of the club, will take this opportunity of hearing a man—who has just completed a most successful tour of the Dominion—discuss questions which should command the interest of every student who keeps in mind world problems and the manifold events which are constantly taking place.

Sir John, we are certain, brings a vital message to McGill. It is to be hoped that all students will do their utmost to hear it.

PROF. J. B. S. HALDANE

The announcement that through a bequest made some ninety years ago McGill University is to have the pleasure of hearing, later on in the session, so distinguished a biologist as Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, whose book "Daedalus" has made him familiar the world over, is to be greatly welcomed by the students. The absorption by McGill of the Natural History Society has made this possible, and although Prof. Haldane will not be here until probably next March his coming is to be eagerly looked forward to by all the undergraduates inasmuch as he will, beyond doubt, bring a message to the student body that is of more than passing importance.

VARIABLE STAR IN ASTRONOMY IS DISCUSSED

Leon Campbell of Harvard Spoke Last Night

ELECT OFFICERS

Col. Walter Lyman Heads Astronomical Society

The importance of variable stars in astronomy was stressed in an illustrated lecture given by Leon Campbell, of the Harvard College Observatory, to the Montreal Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, which met last night in the Physics Building.

The President of the Society, Justice E. E. Howard, soon after calling the meeting to order, invited the speaker of the evening to deliver his address. He introduced Mr. Campbell as being "in touch with practically all the new finds in Astronomy," and that his lecture would therefore be both interesting and instructive.

"I will present the subject, Variable Star Astronomy, not so much from the scientific aspect, as from the aspect that appeals to the amateur astronomer," the speaker declared.

Mr. Campbell then defined an amateur astronomer as one who "works for the love of it. I myself, am also an amateur astronomer," he declared.

The lecturer then went on to define a variable star as one whose light changes. For instance, a certain star may be visible to the naked eye, on one night, while in six months, perhaps, or much less, the brightness of that star may have decreased about two-hundred-fold.

Variable stars are detected by means of photographic plates or by means of the spectroscopic. By means of the photographic plates many, so-called "new" stars have been and are being discovered. Thanks to variable star astronomy, the diameters of stars can now be ascertained, and the distances between them learned.

Mr. Campbell then dwelt on the work that was being done by the Amateur Astronomers. "The business of the amateur astronomer is, not only to observe new stars, but also to find new stars. In 1915, a 'new' star was detected by more amateurs than professionals," he declared.

The slides which were shown during the lecture, were in the main of a technical nature. Some of them, however, served to show the increasing popularity of variable star astronomy throughout the world. The address was followed by a very spirited discussion.

The meeting then elected the following officers for the coming year: Honorary president: Monseigneur C. P. Choquette of St. Hyacinthe, President: Col. Walter Lyman, First vice president: Rev. T. B. Crombie, Second Vice President: H. E. S. Asbury, Treasurer: Prof. A. F. Kelly Secretary: Miss A. V. Douglas.

The council is to consist this year of Dr. A. S. Eve, Prof. A. H. S. Gillson, Justice E. E. Howard, Julien C. Smith, George Sample and J. L. Clarke.

The secretary of the society, Miss A. V. Douglas, announced that Dr. Henriolux of the Observatory of Ottawa will address the society at its next meeting.

REV. DR. ROSE ON POET, THOMPSON

Spoke Before Alumni In R. V. C. Yesterday

The misfortunes, pathos, and tragedy suffered by Francis Thompson as reflected in his work, formed the subject of an address delivered before the Alumni of the R. V. C., at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Common Room, by Rev. Dr. S. P. Rose.

The speaker, during the course of his discussion, read several selections from the poetry of the subject of his address, illustrating the genius of the author and pointing out the need for a sympathetic comprehension of his religion and outlook upon life.

The speaker quoted Arnold Bennett who had said "Thompson has a richer, more natural genius than anyone since Shakespeare" and concluded his discussion with a detailed study of the poet's most famous work "The Hound of Heaven."

The meeting was conceded to be a great success from the standpoint of attendance and programme. Previous to the lecture a short business meeting was held with the president of the society, Miss K. Trenholme in the chair, following which tea was served.

At the close of the meeting the vice president Miss Mabel Corner was elected Alumni Representative on the Committee for the McGill Reunion to be held October 1926.

In the vote of thanks moved to the speaker by Mrs. Vaughan, the pleasure to be derived from such a subject as was discussed, and the welcome interlude in the midst of every day duties it formed, was stressed.

THIS MAJESTY'S

The Dumbells are back in our midst with another grand revue which at least equals, if it does not excel, previous performances. Under the direction of Mr. M. Plunkett, they are staging at His Majesty's theatre this week a concert containing more comedy and human interest than all the movie shows in town put together. It is a show which exceeds many of the revues produced under the Stars and Stripes, and has the quality of being absolutely Canadian in every way—a glowing tribute to Canada.

The star turn of the performance is undoubtedly the "Bus Scene" featuring Stan Bennett as the witty driver, and the Dumbell regulars as occupants. Another screamingly funny—literally so—act is called "Us Girls Must Have our Fun" in which "Red" Newman, Morley Plunkett, Pat Rafferty and Stan Bennett, dressed as old Cockney washerwomen, sing and caper around.

The usual military play is given in the first Act, which portrays Red Newman making love to Miss "Joek" Holland, and carrying on in true "Newman" style. "Red" also favours us with two more two-step military songs on the plan of "Oh, oh, oh, its a lovely war," a previous well-known Dumbell hit.

Theatregoers will also see, for the first time in their lives, the "Wooden soldier" dodge done realistically. The jazz band is responsible for a great deal of noise and, it appears, harmony.

The quaintest song of the evening is as usual, sung by Al PLUNKETT, who, taking as his theme "Mary and her Little Lamb," sings about the adventures of one Mary, who "had a little dog. Whiter than snow And everywhere that Mary went Fido would go."

Some sound patriotic advice is given in a tableau setting forth a comparison between Canada at Vimy Ridge, and Canada in 1925.

The most amazing feats of the performance are carried through by Ross Hamilton who makes a perfect girl, and oh boy! how "she" can dance.

To sum up, there is very little new in policy in the Dumbells this season—Captain Plunkett is too wise to take out those elements which have given the Dumbells a reputation enjoyed by no other Canadian musical enterprise in the country's history. C. H. D.

R.V.C. MUSIC CLUB TO MEET THURSDAY

Piano, Violin and Vocal Solos on Program

Tomorrow at four o'clock in the R. V. C. Common Room, there will be a meeting of the R. V. C. Music Club. Inasmuch as this is the first meeting of the season, it is expected that everyone who can possibly attend will do so, the executive states. Newcomers to McGill are especially invited.

The program will be of a miscellaneous nature, including piano, violin and vocal solos. Among those to take part is Miss Frances James, popular Montreal soprano.

In the interest of meetings to come the executive states that anyone possessing musical ability should not hesitate in acknowledging the fact.

In "Turrets" there are "poker hands" And any 52 Will bring a very handsome pack Of Playing Cards to you.

INTERMEDIATES TO MEET QUEEN'S SECONDS FRIDAY

Goldron Gus Says:

It has been definitely decided that the Intermediates will go up against Queen's in a sudden death game next Friday. Although the McGill seconds have suffered badly by graduations of several players to the senior rank the game may turn out to be a sudden death to Queen's aspirations for the Intermediate honours. The Intermediates have shown up as the best second McGill team in years and showed their worth by downing the scrappy Loyola squad on both meetings. They went through a snappy scrimmage practice yesterday and several new blood was injected on the arrival of good material from the Interfaculty ranks. Consistently the flashy tackle of the Science squad was out working at end and showed promise as an outside wing in future games. Gay Chisholm, the Med's star half back for the last four years and Captain of the Intermediates four years ago was also out and showed good stuff. Bert Taylor, the 145 pound champion among the boxers was out for a little exercise and will be useful on the line if he can forget he is not in the ring. Bert is not likely to start a struggle match, however, Petch and O'Meara and Dalton of the Juniors have been out with the Intermediates for some time and will form a strong sub list. Petch has been playing at inside and O'Meara at middle and both men will probably hold down regular jobs at these positions. O'Meara showed his worth in Junior games with his fine lineplunging and was the best ground gainer for the Juniors. Dalton is a flashy half who will not weaken the half line by his injection into the game.

Dave Munroe will go in at snap and Carson will be at his old job at inside. Gorrie will, in all probability be moved up to play at flying wing and will also do the kicking. Gorrie's kicking has shown remarkable improvement this season and will more than hold his own against anything Queen's can offer in the way of punting. Jerry Altman will be used on the secondary defense where his fine tackling will stand in good stead. Jerry can also figure rather prominently on an end run and has the necessary speed for an end man on an extension play. Taylor and Grassick will go back for the kicks so there's nothing to worry about there. Curly will be also used to go down under kicks and after Monday's performance one can rest assured that there will be no long gains by Queen's halves in running back the ball. Tommy Arnold, the snappy little half will be on the secondary defense with Bazin, the equally snappy quarter. The report that Bazin has come up from carrying the ball with chalk on his chin like a famous movie freshman is not true. It was rumoured. Mellen and Freddie Pugh will be at their old places on the line. Royal Allen and Chisholm will occupy positions at each end of the line and judging from past performances will be down the field under kicks when required.

Reports of the R.M.C.—Queen's game in Kingston show that the Tricolour seconds are not to be sneezed at—nohow. They turned

M.A.A.A. TEAM WINS DUNLOP ROAD RACE

Harrier Club's Second Team Comes Fourth

The last event on the programme of the Harrier Club for this season was the Dunlop Road Race when the runners of the M. A. A. A. defeated representatives of the Montreal Harriers, N. A. A. A. Central Y. M. C. A. and the McGill second team. The course, five miles, over the roads of the North End, proved a difficult route to the thirty odd runners who competed.

The championship and Dunlop trophy was awarded on the basis of one point for first place, two for second, three for third, four men to count for each team. Scoring by this method, the M. A. A. A. team counted 22 points, the Montreal Harriers 28, N. A. A. A. 29, McGill Seconds, 72, Central Y. M. C. A., 78. The individual results were as follows: 1. Wilson (M. H. C.) 26 minutes 48 and four

HOLIDAY FEAST AT THE S.C.A.

Dr. Woodhead Spoke at Annual Gathering

Everything from soup to nuts, was included in the menu of the dinner served to the men from out of the city in Strathcona Hall on Thanksgiving Day, when over 125 gathered for a festive hour together. The hosts for the occasion were the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Student Christian Association, who had made complete arrangements for the banquet. The actual catering was in the hands of Pierre, and was carried out in a very efficient and expeditious manner.

The chairman was T. R. Davies, of the Social Committee of the S. C. A. After ample time had been allowed for everyone to enjoy the meal, Davies introduced the speaker, Dr. W. D. Woodhead, of the Department of Classics, to those present. Dr. Woodhead stated at the outset his appreciation at having the opportunity of meeting such a representative group of undergraduates. He expressed himself, however, as being disappointed by the idea of after-dinner back the cadets first team 14 to 9 which is the self-same team that put in such a good battle against McGill seniors early in the season. Ada, who does the kicking for the Kingstons has the reputation of being one of the best Intermediates who have ever represented Queen's on the half line and the only reason that he is not on the seniors is that Hattstone, Leadley, McKelvey, Voss and Chantler are quite enough already. The rest of the team are all good players who are out of senior company because of the exceptionally strong senior line-up. The Intermediates are up against a husky bunch of crack football players and will have their work cut out for them in Friday's struggle.

BOXERS LEARN TO COMBINE PUNCHES

Big Class is Split Into Groups by Coach

The Boxing Club is off to a great start. There have been several practices now and the number of men showing up continues to increase. Last night's workout was no large one to necessitate a division into two classes. The more experienced men, those who have competed in open bouts before, were formed into a smaller group to work on the punching bag while the new men received varied instruction. The latter are coming along fast. The distinction between old timer and newcomer is becoming less noticeable with every practice.

In former workouts, Coach Bert Light has demonstrated five different blows. Last night instruction was given in combining these blows to make an effective attack. The Coach went about his classes requesting the men individually to ask questions and bring up their difficulties. He closed his demonstration in a bout with Keller.

Much work is necessary to enable the club to achieve final success. It is stated and the big turn outs indicate that a steady interest is being taken by the students in the organization. There will be periods of sharp work, periods of duller routine and plenty of conditioning exercises. These things produce results and the men will be kept at work all the time. The usual practice will be held Thursday.

SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY AT TORONTO

R. M. C. Will Then Play the Winner of the Game

The draw for the intercollegiate soccer schedule has been made by McDonald of Queen's University. McGill and University of Toronto will meet in the first game on Friday and R. M. C. will play the winner of this match on Saturday. Both of these games will be played at Toronto.

The McGill team, which made such a good impression during its recent trip to the United States, will consist of the following men:—Amaron, Giovanni, Moffat, Heiwig, Archdale, Rinfret, Gavin, Estall, Kelland, Shipman and Scott. Dr. Lamb, honorary president of the Soccer Club and Coach Finlay will make the trip with the men.

There will be a full practice this afternoon at 4 o'clock. All players are requested by club authorities to watch to-morrow's paper for further particulars.

13—Term of Office of Members of News Board

Except as provided in article seven members of the News Board shall continue in office as long as their work is considered satisfactory to the Managing Board.

14—Duties of the News Board

(a)—Six members of the News Board shall be chosen to act in the capacity of News Editors. As such, they will be required to take charge of one edition of the Daily per week, being responsible to the Editor-in-Chief for the contents of the entire issue, save the advertisements and the editorials.

(b)—The remaining members of the News Board shall be assigned to such duties as the Managing Board may determine, and may be given such title as are in keeping with whatever duties as they have been assigned to perform.

15—Staff

The staff of the McGill Daily shall consist of the Managing Board the News Board and the reporters.

16—Selection of Reporters

Any undergraduate may be selected reporter on the McGill Daily on recommendation of the News Board after at least three weeks' trial.

17—Duties of Reporters

All reporters shall be required to spend the evening of one day per week to aid in the production of the paper. He shall further be required to present himself in person at the office of the Daily between one o'clock p.m. and two o'clock p.m. on the day assigned to him for work. If necessary he shall spend a certain portion of the afternoon of that day assisting in producing the paper.

JUNIOR DANCE PREPARATIONS NEAR A FINISH

H. S. Ross, Arch. '29 Wins Program Competition

TICKETS THURSDAY

Third Years to Draw Lots for Pastebord in Near Future

Arrangements for the Junior Prom are now nearing completion. With the date of the event just ten days off the majority of the details have been worked out by the committee. At the meeting last night with James V. Russell in the chair, the main business was the discussion of the programme designs. Several of these were submitted and all were very well done. The committee announced last night. In deciding, the originality of the design was considered together with the color scheme and the cost of the printing. The first prize of a free ticket to the Prom was awarded to H. S. Ross of Arch '29.

The tickets were issued to the class representatives last night but will not be sold until Thursday. As there are only a limited number of these it was decided to have them sold by the representatives at class meetings on that date. These meetings will be called for those wishing tickets and if there are more men than pastebords the lucky ones will be determined by the drawing of lots.

It was also decided to give favors at the dance although the exact nature of these is being kept a close secret. The decorations are also proceeding at a rapid rate and actual work will be commenced upon them next week.

The programme of the dances has not been definitely decided upon, but will be announced after the next meeting. Contracts have been closed with Gross' orchestra and the crowd can be assured it is stated, of the very best of music.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for 7.30 o'clock on Thursday night at the R. V. C.

WRESTLERS ARE HARD AT WORK

Vacancies Still Left in Heavy Categories

That the wrestlers are getting down to hard work was evident at yesterday's practice held in Strathcona Hall. There was quite a large turnout including many men who were not out at the last practice. Many of the freshmen turning out are making considerable progress under Coach Smith although they are quite new to the game. There are, it is stated, many vacancies especially among the heavy classes. Men of lighter weight are also in demand.

The new method which Coach Smith is trying has been working is deemed unsatisfactory by the Managing Board.

19—Amendments

Amendments to the constitution shall be made only by a two-third majority at a meeting of the staff with the approval of the Students' Executive Council.

ed to dominate the world without regard to the sacred obligation of treaty, or the long cherished principle of liberty and freedom.
"The impartial observer cannot but reflect that the money lent by the United States to equip the manpower of her allies, with weapons and munition, did not and has not brought any increase of material prosperity or benefit to them, and all the money lent was dissipated at the cannon's mouth.

"An illustration of the impossibility of regarding such debts in the same light as commercial obligations, is to be found in the following story:—
"At the beginning of the war, when German pressure on the Western front was very great, the Allies begged Russia to create a diversion by attacking Germany in the East. Russia at first refused, saying that it would mean annihilation, but the Allies persuaded and finally Russia, in the interests of all, consented to attack East Prussia. Her attack achieved the desired result. The Germans hurried troops from the Western front to defend their country. Russia however, succeeded in advancing as far as Tannenberg, where, as she had anticipated, she met with an overwhelming defeat at the hands of Hindenburg, and lost not only tens of thousands of soldiers, but also the whole of her artillery and military equipment. The result was that Russia had to be re-equipped, and was re-equipped by Great Britain and France, and as this re-equipment happened to be a bookable transaction, Russia was as a matter of form, debited with the cost.

"This side of the question does not seem to be understood in the U. S. A., although it is fully realized in Great Britain. After the Napoleonic wars, Great Britain, who had financed her continental allies for some twenty years, did not ask them for the return of the one penny-piece of the money that had been spent in fighting the common enemy. Although during the great war Great Britain's resources were strained to the utmost and she had lent to her allies two and a half times as much as she borrowed from the United States, she has declared officially that she will not look to any of her allies to pay her a sum greater on the aggregate, than will enable her to repay U. S. A. In other words, she is giving up one and a half times as much as she owes America."

Sir John Power has just completed a tour of Canada, which he started on September 28. He has spoken at the larger Canadian cities from coast to coast, and has also spoken at public and private meetings in New York.
